Pecos Bill Rides a Tornado

A tall tale from the Wild West

Surely you've heard tell of Pecos Bill. He was a cowboy down in Texas. He was about the bravest cowboy that ever lived. I seen with my own eyes the time Bill used two rattlesnakes as a lasso. And then there was the time Bill shot all the stars out of the sky—all of 'em except the Lone Star, that is.

But my favorite Pecos Bill story is the one about the time he rode a tornado. You see, there wasn't a horse in the world that was too wild for him. So it's not surprising that one day, Bill decided he wanted to ride a tornado—and not just any tornado. No, sir. Bill waited for the biggest, the mightiest, the most terrifying tornado ever born from the clouds. It was so big that folks on the moon could see it swirling. It picked up elephants from Africa and whales from the Pacific Ocean. But that didn't scare Bill. He just reached up and grabbed that tornado out of the sky. He threw it down to the ground and hopped right on.

That tornado whirled and swirled and wiggled and wagged like an alligator with its tail on fire. Bill hung right on. It sucked up Lake Michigan and dumped the water into the Grand Canyon. Bill hung right on. At last, that tornado got tired. It stopped its whirling, and Bill fell off. He fell so hard that the ground sank. Folks call that spot Death Valley. Now, most people would be pretty banged up by such a fall. Not Bill, though. He was as happy as a bear in honey.

Lots of folks heard about Bill's tornado ride, no doubt. That's where they got the idea for rodeos. Of course, nobody but Bill ever rode a tornado. Most cowboys just ride broncos.

- 1. HYPERBOLE: This is a fancy word for a statement that is exaggerated. Circle two (2) examples of hyperbole in the story of Pecos Bill.
- A FUNNY TONE: Tall tales are supposed to make you laugh. Underline two (2) examples of humor, which creates a funny tone.
- 3. SIMILE: Tall tales include great descriptions. One way to describe something is to use a simile, in which one thing is compared with another using like or as. In the boxes below, write two (2) examples of similes.

SNOW PERSON WRITING PROMPT

Pretend you and your friends build a life-sized snowperson who comes to life. Write a paragraph or two describing a day of adventure with your snow friend. Added challenge: write a poem instead.

LANDSCAPE FROM YOUR WINDOW

Use materials of your choice (crayons, pencils, paint, clay) to create a picture of the view from your window. What do you see? What is happening? How can you tell? What details can you include in your artwork to describe what you see? Find a creative way to show what is happening outside your window. Bring your artwork to school to share with your class.

WATER CYCLE

Water cycle is also known as the hydrologic cycle or hydrological cycle. It describes how water moves continuously on Earth. Water loops through different stages – evaporation, condensation, precipitation, and flow. It then goes back to the evaporation stage. The whole cycle starts all over again and hence the name "water cycle."

- 1. Draw the water cycle diagram.
- 2. Warm up the water until steam starts to rise, but do not let it boil.
- 3. Add blue food coloring into the water to represent ocean water if you would like.
- 4. Pour the water into a ziplock bag, so it has 1 cm of water at the bottom and zip it up.
- 5. Hang the bag upright on the window using packing tape.
- 6. Watch it over time and make observations.

How is what happens similar to the water cycle?

Find a comfortable place in your house and do the exercises listed below.

Push-Ups

Get in a push-up position with your arms straight and elbows locked. Try holding yourself in this position for 90 seconds.

Shoulder Tap

While in the push-up position, try to touch your right hand to your left shoulder, then your left hand to your right shoulder. Repeat 24 times.

Ab Crunches

Lay on the floor and do 30 abdominal crunches.

Repeat this routine one more time!
